About the Author

Regina Brett is the author of the New York Times best-seller God Never Blinks: 50 Lessons for Life’s Little Detours. The inspirational book is in its fifth printing in over 20 countries. As a two-time finalist for the Pulitzer Prize in Commentary, Regina has reached the hearts of readers across the country. As a columnist for The Cleveland Plain Dealer her columns are posted on refrigerators, tucked into wallets, quoted from pulpits, clipped, tweeted, snail-mailed and emailed around the world.

“Regina Brett’s God Never Blinks provides practical insights that can change the world,” says author and medical doctor Deepak Chopra.

Jeffrey Zaslow, coauthor of The Last Lecture, says “Regina Brett is a gifted observer of the experiences that shape who we are, and her lessons unfold with buoyancy, humor and courageous honesty. She has given us a beautifully written road map for life.”

Her new book, Be the Miracle: 50 Lessons for Making the Impossible Possible was just published in the U.S. The book offers unforgettable stories about the decisions we make and how our choices can make the impossible possible. To be a miracle doesn’t necessarily mean tackling problems across the globe. It means believing change is possible and making a difference, in your own living room, cubicle, neighborhood or out in the world.

Readers love her lessons. They post them on their refrigerators. They carry them in their wallets. They tuck them in their purses. They email them all over the country. Her lessons have traveled the world from Austin to Australia. A Land Rover dealership in Cincinnati hands the lessons out to customers. A cancer care agency gives them out with every wig. Teachers share them with students in health classes. Her books are the perfect gift for graduates, newlyweds, retirees or for anyone celebrating a birthday or facing a challenge.
